By their testimony for the plaintiff.

By their testimony and the checks and bank books offered, the city made out a great part of its case. It was es-tablished that House, when in the city attorney's office, had loaned money to Senator Flinn, and that the latter had paid interest to House on the money. It also developed that Senator Flinn had paid back all the money he had borrowed, and that the greatest part, if not all of it, had been deposited to the account of Moreland in the various banks. The chief point to be determined is whether Flinn knew it was city money that was being loaned to him. That he had such knowledge was denied by himself and House.

Their Ideas of Columbia The songs which were sung for Dewey by the public school children included so many references to Columbia that a teacher in a certain south end public school thought she would find out how many of her seventh grade pupils understood what "Colum-bla" meant. She put the question for written answers and received these among the others: "A ship." "The man who came over from Spain and discovered our country." "A bisikkel."

"A captain." Then there were several totally unintelligible and unaccountable answers. But not one pupil in the class knew that Columbia was another name for the United States of America .- Boston Transcript.

"I have been troubled a great deal with a torpid liver, which produces constipation. I found CASCARETS to be all you claim for them, and secured such relief the first trial that I purchased another supply and was completely cured. I shall only be too gird to recommend Cascarets whenever the opportunity is presented."
